

JEFFRIES' HOLD

On the Heavy Weight Cham- pionship Further Clinched

CORBETT LOST IN TENTH

In the Next to the Last His Showing Which Had Not Been Good at Any Stage Was Rather the Best.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—James J. Jeffries, the champion heavyweight of the world, fought with Jim Corbett for the title rounds and a last tonight, and then Corbett's second motioned to the referee to stop the fighting in order to have their man from needless punishment.

The end came shortly after the beginning of the tenth round, when Jeffries planted one of his terrific left swings on Corbett's stomach. The man who conquered John L. Sullivan dropped to the floor in agony and the memorable scene at Carson, when Bob Fitzsimmons landed his solar plexus blow, was almost duplicated. This time, however, Corbett struggled to his feet and again faced his gigantic adversary.

With hardly a moment's hesitation Jeffries swung his right and again landed on Corbett's stomach. Jim dropped to the floor, and then it was that Tommy Ryan, seeing that it was all over, motioned to Referee Graney to stop the punishment.

The fight tonight demonstrated beyond all doubt that Jeffries stands alone in his class. He showed a remarkable improvement in both speed and skill. Corbett, during the first part of the fight, was almost outpointed, and the few blows that he landed on Jeffries were apparently without a sting. Jeffries was never in better condition. He looked lighter than usual, and the way he moved about on his feet and the frequency with which he countered Corbett's leads astonished everybody.

Corbett, in comparison with the big man opposite him, looked very light, but was really heavier than ever before. He appeared to have lost some of his old-time speed and skill during the early part of the fight, but this may have been due to Jeffries' marvelous improvement. Corbett's physical condition appeared to be all that he had claimed for it. He stood many of Jeffries' terrific blows without flinching and came back swinging left and right and landing frequently, but his blows hardly stung Jeffries.

Jeffries was not only stronger, faster and cleverer than ever before, but he used his head to better purpose, and although Corbett would hit him hard enough to hurt an ordinary man, Jeffries would bore right in without noticing the blows and would deliver telling hits that materially helped in deciding the result of the fight.

At first Corbett was very cautious and apparently was outpointed by Jeffries, but later in the fight he warmed up and showed some of his old-time cleverness. From the first, however, it was generally regarded as a hopeless case for Corbett. He made a gallant fight, but he never stood a show to win.

After the fight was over Corbett quickly rose and walked over to Jeffries and shook hands with him warmly. He said:

"Jim, you beat me fairly. You stand alone. No one can touch you."

Referee Eddie Graney said after the fight that it was a great heavyweight contest. "Corbett was very clever, but Jeffries was almost equally so and showed marvelous improvement. He practically outboxed Corbett during the fight with the exception of the eighth and ninth rounds. Every blow that he landed told, and his superior weight and strength was bound to win in the end."

Timekeeper George Harting stated that the blows that won the fight were a left to the stomach followed by a right to the same place as soon as Corbett arose to his feet after taking the count of nine seconds.

"It was the best fight Jeffries ever made and astonished every one even those who had placed implicit faith in his ability to win," said Harting.

During the fight Corbett talked continuously to Jeffries, and to the referee he made a number of facetious remarks. He was game to the end. Corbett's system of training was undoubtedly beneficial to him from a physical point of view.

THE PRELIMINARIES.

The preliminary matches failed to inspire interest. The participants were local fighters of whom little had been heard. The set-to between Evans and Fairbanks, the second preliminary, was a vicious but unscientific affair, and when Fairbanks was laid out in the second round and carried away, there was little interest shown by the great crowd which had come for another purpose than to be entertained by preliminaries.

THE REAL FIGHT.

The ring was cleared preparatory to the entrance of the big fighters. Flash-light photographers entered the ring with their apparatus and the pugilists were photographed as soon as they entered. It was learned that Corbett had received many messages from theatrical promoters from all parts of the world offering him extravagant inducements to appear in monologue stunts, win or lose.

Every seat in the vast building had its occupant. Jeffries was the first to enter the ring. As he tripped through the ropes he was accorded a tremendous ovation. He was followed quickly by Corbett, who received the greater amount of applause.

Jeffries looked in splendid condition, and said as he entered the ring he was fit to fight for a king's ransom. Corbett was clad in a long white robe, which made him look pale. Physically, however, he could not have looked better.

Corbett was seconded by Yank Kenney, Sam Berger, Pop Dare and Thomas Ryan. Jeffries was looked after by his brother Jack, Billy Delaney, Bob Fitzsimmons and Joe Kennedy.

Jeff was introduced by Announcer Jordan as the champion of the world. He was vigorously applauded. Corbett was introduced as James J. Corbett of San Francisco and was enthusiastically cheered.

Challenges were read from Jack Monroe and Jake Johnson, the colored champion. Eddie Graney, the referee, was then introduced as "a native son of the Golden West."

Jeffries had on black trunks entwined with the American flag. Corbett had not yet discarded his robe. Corbett looked confident as he pulled the hangings of his hands and greeted his friends with encouraging smiles. The men in Corbett's corner were arguing about the contest.

Jeffries went to his corner and calmly looked over the audience while waiting for Corbett to finish removing the bandages and don the gloves. All the while except those immediately over the arena were extinguished and the men prepared to have their pictures taken by flashlight.

THE BEGINNING OF THE FIGHT.

Corbett and Jeffries are now sitting for their photographs, two sittings being necessary before it was pronounced a success. Corbett had a plain black trunk without any variations.

It was announced by Jordan that the contest would be a twenty-round affair under the Queensberry rules.

THE WAY IT WAS DONE.

Round 1.—They came to the center instantly and Jeff chased Corbett around and missed a left swing on jaw. They then came together and parted carefully. Jeff tried a left for body and head, but was blocked. Jim tried a left swing and then got a right to the body. Jeff followed with left high on body, and they mixed. Corbett getting light rights to body, and Jeff then put light over heart and hard left to body. Jeff seemed inclined to force matters. Corbett shot right to the body and they came to clinch. Jeff hooked left to jaw, and Corbett bored in with right to wind. As he swung right to his corner smiling. Jeff had a little the better of the round and both fought very carefully throughout.

Round 2.—They went to a clinch and Jeff got left to Corbett's neck. As they came out of a clinch Jeffries landed a left hard on Corbett's nose. Jeff swung hard with a left, but Corbett rushed inside of it. They came together again and Jeff got a left to the chest. Jeff also got in a right to the body. Corbett caught Jeff a vicious left swing on head and the champion then put a light right to jaw. Jim ducked a left to the head and landed a heavy right jolt to the ribs. The bell rang. Jeff seemed to have plenty of steam behind his blows and showed much cleverness.

Round 3.—They came together and were separated without any blows. Jeff landed a left swing on Jim's neck and followed him around, landing another left to the wind. Corbett was chased around the ring and Jeff put a straight left hard to the body. Jeff caught Jim on jaw with a vicious right and they clinched. Corbett claimed a foul and Jeff swung a left and right to the jaw. Corbett protested to the referee that Jeff was holding on and landed a savage right to the jaw. Jeffries sent in a left swing to jaw and they went into a clinch. Jeff broke it up with a stiff right and left to body and the going rang.

Round 6.—Both missed left leads, and they went to a clinch. Jeff crunched. Jim blocked two hard rights and the champion sent Jim to the floor with a stiff left to the jaw. Jim took the count and came back. Jeffries was unrelenting and landed a right and left hard to the jaw, and Jeff rushed Corbett into his corner, but did not land. Just at the bell Corbett uppercut Jeff on the jaw with a hard right, but it did not faze the champion. Corbett went to his chair smiling, but looked very much fatigued.

Round 7.—Jeff rushed Jim about the ring and went to a clinch. Jeff stopped Jim with a left on the face, but it was not hard. Jeff drove a hard left to the body that was blocked, and followed it with a left to the jaw, and then with two more to the same place. Corbett yelled out, "He can't knock me out." This angered Jeff. Then Jim put a right to the head and a hard left to the wind. Jeff got in a light left to the body, followed with a left swing to the jaw. Jim came back with three stiff lefts and a right on the face and the bell found them in a clinch. At this stage Jeff had a long lead.

THE GENERAL STAFF

The First Orders Issued Under New Regime

Announcement by General Young of Members of the General Staff and War College Board.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—The general orders will be issued by General Young tomorrow as chief of staff of the army under the new law. The first orders in compliance with the instructions of the president, he, General Young, has relinquished the command of the army and assumes the duties of chief of staff.

The second order announces the assignment of officers of the general staff as follows: Assistants to the chief of staff, Major General Henry C. Corbin, adjutant general; Brigadier General W. H. Custer, Brigadier General Wallace F. Randolph, chief of artillery.

The officers named will perform such duties as may be assigned to them under the law by the chief of staff.

The war college board: Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, president; Colonel Alexander Laykin, secretary; corps of engineers, General staff, and Major William D. Beach, Eighteenth Cavalry; Colonel William F. Hall, assistant adjutant general, is designated as acting adjutant general of the assembly.

As assistant chief of staff General Corbin will perform much the same duties as heretofore.

A CRASHING OF BANKS

Four in Duluth, Minn., Attributed to Embezzlement.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 14.—The alleged embezzlement of $45,000 of the funds of the Commercial Banking company, for which E. E. Johnson, trusted clerk of the bank, is under arrest, today brought about a failure of the Merchants' bank of Duluth.

President Smith said that the failure was due to a run on the bank resulting from the closing of the Commercial institution. He said that he could not anticipate the extent of the withdrawals and closed to protect all depositors as much as possible. This is the fourth bank to suspend as a result of the alleged embezzlement.

A MISSING CASHIER.

Montgomery, Minn., Aug. 14.—The Farmers and Merchants' bank was not opened for business yesterday or today and the whereabouts of Cashier D. M. Brainerd is unknown to the depositors. The deposits run from $50,000 to $150,000, and no one knows the assets.

THE HUMBERT TRIAL.

Paris, Aug. 14.—Mme. Therese Humbert continued her declaratory statements at today's hearing in the Humbert trial. When she charged one of the witnesses, the money lender Cartak, with being a robber and a user, she declared that she expected to leave the court room with a high head and fully vindicated. "If I were condemned," she added, "I would not survive this dishonor."

The doctor attending Mme. Humbert said she suffered a lengthy attack of syncope a week ago and that she had great difficulty in keeping up her strength.

Mme. Paraire, the concierge of the Humbert mansion, testified that the Crawford brothers visited the house constantly, often twice a day, and that they did not resemble either Romain or Emile D'Aurignac.

X-RAY KILLS MOSQUITOES.

The Doctor Who Made the Discovery Lives in New Jersey.

Newark, N. J., Aug. 14.—A local physician thinks that he has solved the mosquito problem. He has a complete X-ray coll machine in the laboratory and has been using it in his practice for a month or more and experimenting with it at night. The other morning a household showed the doctor a dust-ran half filled with dead mosquitoes and other insects which she had swept up from the polished floor of the laboratory.

He has experimented since and found that the rays will kill mosquitoes and other insects.

THE PANAMA TREATY DAMAGED BATTLESHIP

The Outlook for It Is Rapidly Improving.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—William Nelson Cromwell, counsel for the Panama Canal company, today informed acting Secretary of State Loomis that he had received mail advices from his agents at Bogota that the lower house of the Colombian congress was "By an avowed and open majority strongly in favor of ratification of the Hay-Herran treaty exactly as it stands and that the upper house that at first was almost overwhelmingly opposed to its ratification in its present form now stood fully one-third in favor of ratification without amendment."

FOUND BAD FAITH

The I. T. U. on the North- ern Arbitration Case.

It is found by the Committee That the Publishers Themselves First Nullified the Understanding.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The committee on arbitration of the Typographical union made the following report today:

"In the famous Spokane and Seattle cases in which President Lynch is charged by Commissioner Driscoll with a violation of the arbitration agreement, we find after careful consideration of all evidence adduced:

"That the publishers precipitated the trouble by a display of bad faith in the outset. We believe the arbitration agreement was promulgated by honorable men who were unable at its inception to see the loopholes through which an unfair publisher or union might take advantage of it. We believe that the apparent bad faith of the above mentioned publishers nullified the arbitration agreement as applied to them and justified President Lynch and the executive council to take the course they did.

"Commissioner Driscoll and President Lynch agree and so does your committee that the whole trouble arises over the lack of a code of procedure which shall define how any question is to be arbitrated. We hold that this code of procedure should be fixed only by the parties who conceived and promulgated the original arbitration agreement.

"We submit that this agreement was effected without arbitration in its popular sense, and now that it has been discovered that the agreement is ineffective without a code of procedure, we recommend that if the agreement is to live, its acknowledged shortcomings shall be remedied as above set out. We do not believe the arbitration agreement contemplated the arbitration of questions of the I. T. U., but should be confined only to questions over and beyond wage scales, the new ones proposed by the dissatisfied parties. The I. T. U. law in existence at the inception of the arbitration agreement cannot be arbitrated for the reason that by a referendum vote alone can it be amended or altered. The I. T. U. constitution and by-laws like those of the United States government represent what the members of the union believe to be principles that cannot be arbitrated and their arbitration was not contemplated, they are necessary to the life of the organization and must be maintained.

"Commissioner Driscoll proposes to arbitrate with our president the question pending in Spokane and Seattle, and to leave it to any man that they may agree on. For the reasons adopted our committee is of the opinion that the arbitration of matters prohibited by our laws and therein violated the agreement putting themselves beyond the pale of arbitration. We assert that we believe in arbitration, but arbitration is only possible where parties to a dispute approach the question in a fair manner.

"We recommend that the convention endorse President Lynch and the executive council in the course they have pursued, believing that it was the only way open when the discovery was made that the publishers were not living up to the spirit of the contract."

President Lynch at this point answered to the charge made by Commissioner Driscoll, a representative of the Publishers' association, that he and the executive council violated their agreement in connection with these cases. He was loudly cheered when he finished.

A motion to consider the report in executive session was voted down. After adjournment by a number of the

COMING TO ARIZONA

Captain Carter on His Release From Leavenworth Prison.

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 14 (Special).—Oberlin M. Carter, the engineer officer of the army who was convicted in 1900 of conspiring with Gaynor and Green to swindle the government, and was given five years in the Fort Leavenworth (Kansas) prison, will be released early in December under the "three-fourths" law for being a model prisoner, and will come to Arizona and accept the position of chief engineer for one of the big mining companies of this territory.

Of the $800,000 swindle the government recovered about one-half that amount. Some $300,000 was said to have been deposited in one of the banks in Huntington, W. Va., where Carter's brothers are prominently identified in business.

ABOUT COMPLEXIONS.

Food Makes Them Good or Bad.

Saturate the human body with strong coffee and it will in time show in the complexion of the coffee drinker.

This is caused by the action of coffee on the liver, thus throwing part of the bile into the blood. Coffee complexions are sallow and muddy and will stay that way until coffee is given up entirely.

The sure way to recover rosy cheeks and red lips is to quit coffee and drink Postum Food Coffee, which makes red blood. "I had been for more than 20 years an inveterate coffee drinker and it is absolutely true that I had so completely saturated myself with this drug that my complexion toward the last became perfectly yellow and every nerve and fibre in me was affected by the drugs in coffee.

"For days at a time I had been compelled to keep to my bed on account of nervous headache and stomach trouble and medicines did not give me any relief. I had never consulted a physician in regard to my headaches and terrible complexion and I only found out the cause of them after I commenced the use of Postum, which became known to me through Grape-Nuts. We all liked the Postum. It made me feel better, so we thought Postum must certainly have merit and we concluded to try it. We found it so delicious that we continued the use altogether although I never expected it to help my health.

"After a few months my headaches cleared wonderfully, then I knew that my troubles had been caused by coffee and had been cured when I left off coffee and drank Postum in its place." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum will change the blood of any coffee drinker and rosy cheeks and health take the place of a yellow skin and disease.

EARNINGS OF TWO ROADS.

New York, Aug. 14.—The estimated gross earnings of the Southern Indiana for July are $97,623, compared with $85,208 in the corresponding month of last year. The Illinois Southern for July estimates its earnings at $12,754, as compared with $12,156 in the corresponding month of last year.

JETT'S GTIM

Avenge by the of Him and White

IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE

For Both of the Defendants—The Prosecution Inclined to Allow a New Trial With the Hope of Hang- ing Jett

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 14.—Curtiss Jett and Thomas White were today found guilty of the murder of J. B. Marcum at Jackson, Ky., on May 4th and sentenced for life.

At the trial held in Jackson last month one juror hung the jury to the last on the question of guilt and this time one juror hung the jury for twenty-four hours on the question of the sentence.

The first ballot was eleven to 1 for conviction of both defendants and the second was unanimous for conviction, the first ballot on the sentence was seven for death and five for life imprisonment. The separate ballots on Jett's case stood eleven for hanging and one for life sentence. This result was not changed in the subsequent votes, Jasper King, formerly a deputy sheriff, voting alone until a compromise was reached for the life sentence for both.

During the afternoon Judge Osborne heard the motion of the defense for a new trial. The grounds set forth consisted of objections to the evidence admitted for the commonwealth and rejected for the defense, and also to the ruling out of affidavits made by the defendants, saying that a fair and impartial trial could not be had on account of the military display which inflamed the public mind.

The attorneys for the prosecution were in consultation during the afternoon and tonight as to whether they would oppose the motion for a new trial as to Jett, as they say if they can get a new trial in his case they will have enough new evidence to secure a death sentence.

MARTINIQUE RAVAGED.

This Time by Wind Instead of by Fire.

Washington, Aug. 14.—The state department received the following cablegram from the American consul at Martinique: "The cane, cocoa, and coffee crops are a total loss. All the fruits and vegetables are positively destroyed. Every town and village is injured and thousands of houses are down. The deaths are few. Provisions and galvanized iron roofing will find ready sale."

ENGINEER BOND'S DEATH.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 14.—State Engineer Fred Bond died a few minutes before 8 o'clock tonight from hemorrhage. For several weeks he had been ill with typhoid and the end had been expected for several days.

He was an irrigation expert, ranking with Professor Elwood Mead, whom he succeeded as state engineer.
